A new flat-screen TV has several advantages the key one being aesthetically pleasing, with a disadvantage of poor sound quality. This is where Cinebar 50 enters the picture and will catapult the otherwise flimsy sound from new modern flat-screen TVs to a higher level, and look ultra sleek and stylish in your living room too!

The brilliantly black Cinebar 50 set comprises of two components, a slim speaker bar (101cm x 10.2cm x 13.25cm) and an external subwoofer. The surround sound achieved from the Cinebar 50 set replicates that produced from a standard five-speaker surround-sound arrangement, but has the convenience of just coming from a single, stylish bar.

The Cinebar 50 is not only superb for watching television, as up to five devices can be connected to your Cinebar 50 set from the two digital, two analogue and a USB
